

brand of left-handed pitching against the Cubs.

Leach, Schulte, Mitchell, Zim, Bresnahan and Smith each made one of the Cubs' half-dozen hits off Sallee.

When Sallee was sent against the Cubs, Evers made several changes in the line-up, Leach going to center in place of Clymer and Archer holding down first. In addition to being a left-handed batter, Clymer is suffering from a bum foot, having dropped a bat on it a few days ago. In the third inning Evers lifted himself and Bridwell, the Keystone princes, Phelan and Corriden going to second and short.

Magee of the Cards soaked a dandy home run with a man on base.

Evers is up against it for pitchers. Today he must choose between Lou Richie and a youngster, and on Richie's last performance the youngster seems to have the call. It will be Toney, Powell or Pierce, the recruit left-hander.

Strong pitching on the part of Al Demaree, the young Chicagoan, gave the New York Giants a 13 to 4 win over the Boston Braves. Demaree allowed only 6 hits. The Giants didn't need that kind of twirling, however, as they smashed out twenty safeties off the delivery of "Lefty" Tyler and Buster Brown. Capt. Doyle of the McGraw men was put out of the game in the second inning by Umpire Byron. Capt. Sweeney of the Braves has been bounced for three days for the little howl he made to Umpire Rigler yesterday.

Like the mighty Cub of old, Joe Tinker walked up to the plate in the ninth inning yesterday when the Pittsburgh Pirates had a 5 to 3 lead over his Cincinnati team and smashed out a three-bagger scoring Beschler and Bates. No one could send Joe home with the winning run and the game was still 5 to 5 when called by darkness in the 12th inning. Right after making this mighty clout, Joe had an argument and was put out of the game. Chief Johnson, White Sox cast-off, who won for Tinker the other day, took Fromme's place on the slab in the 10th and allowed only one bingle in three innings. Camnitz and Robinson did the hurling for the Pirates. Jack Miller, Pittsburgh first-baseman, got a triple and a double.

The great pitching duel of April between Ernie Seaton and Nap Rucker, in which the former beat the Brooklyn star 1 to 0, was repeated
